

Acceleration of Blockchain Adoption in Pharma & Life Sciences: Key Insights

Recently, Healthcare Triangle polled a small group of pharmaceutical IT and supply chain leaders to determine where organizations are in their blockchain adoption journey. This survey revealed key insights.

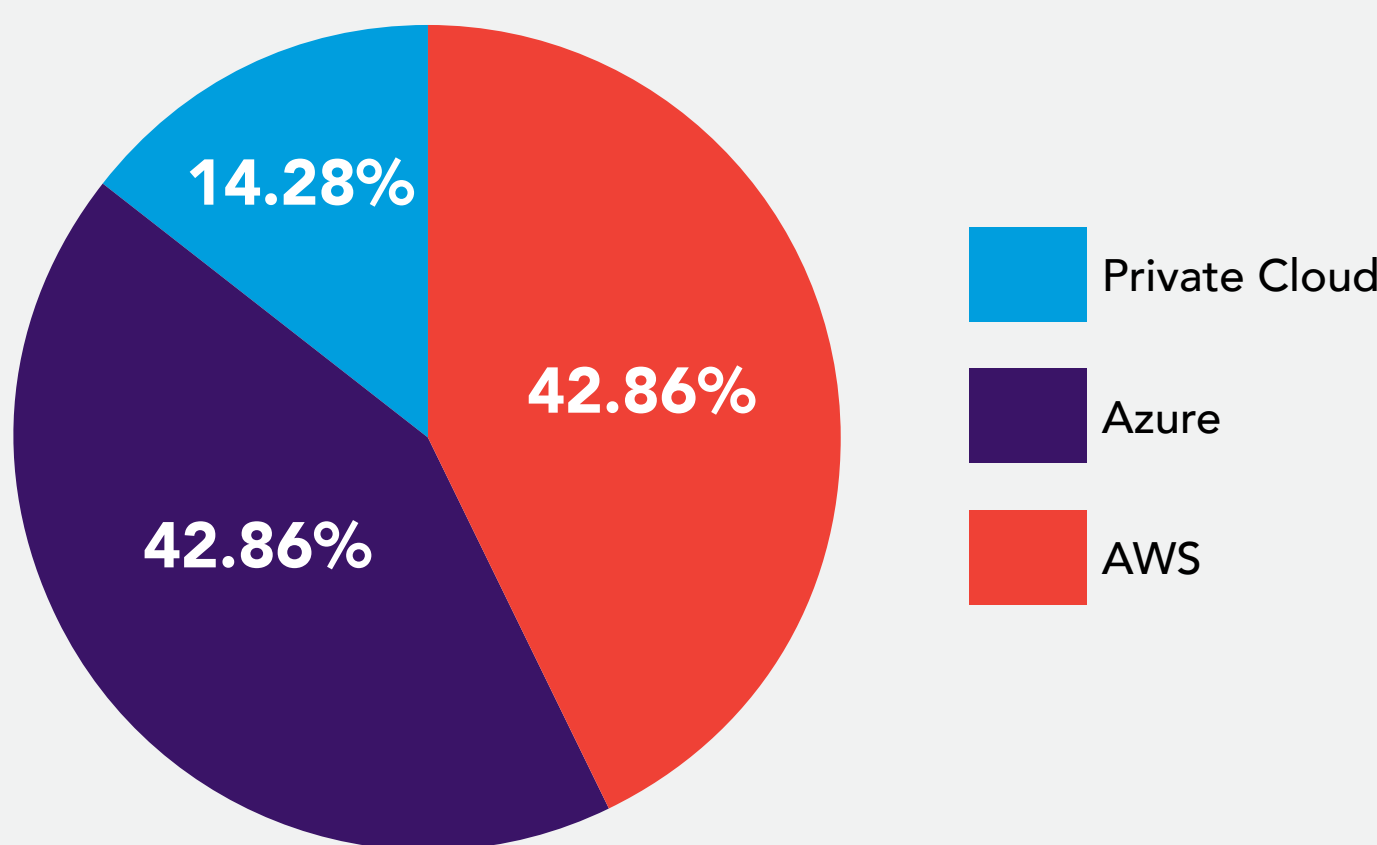

1 By leveraging a shared, decentralized cloud database that is stored in non-changeable blocks or ledgers, global leaders are increasing transparency across the supply chain and adding value to the brand.

Do you have any impediments in implementing blockchain networks in cloud?

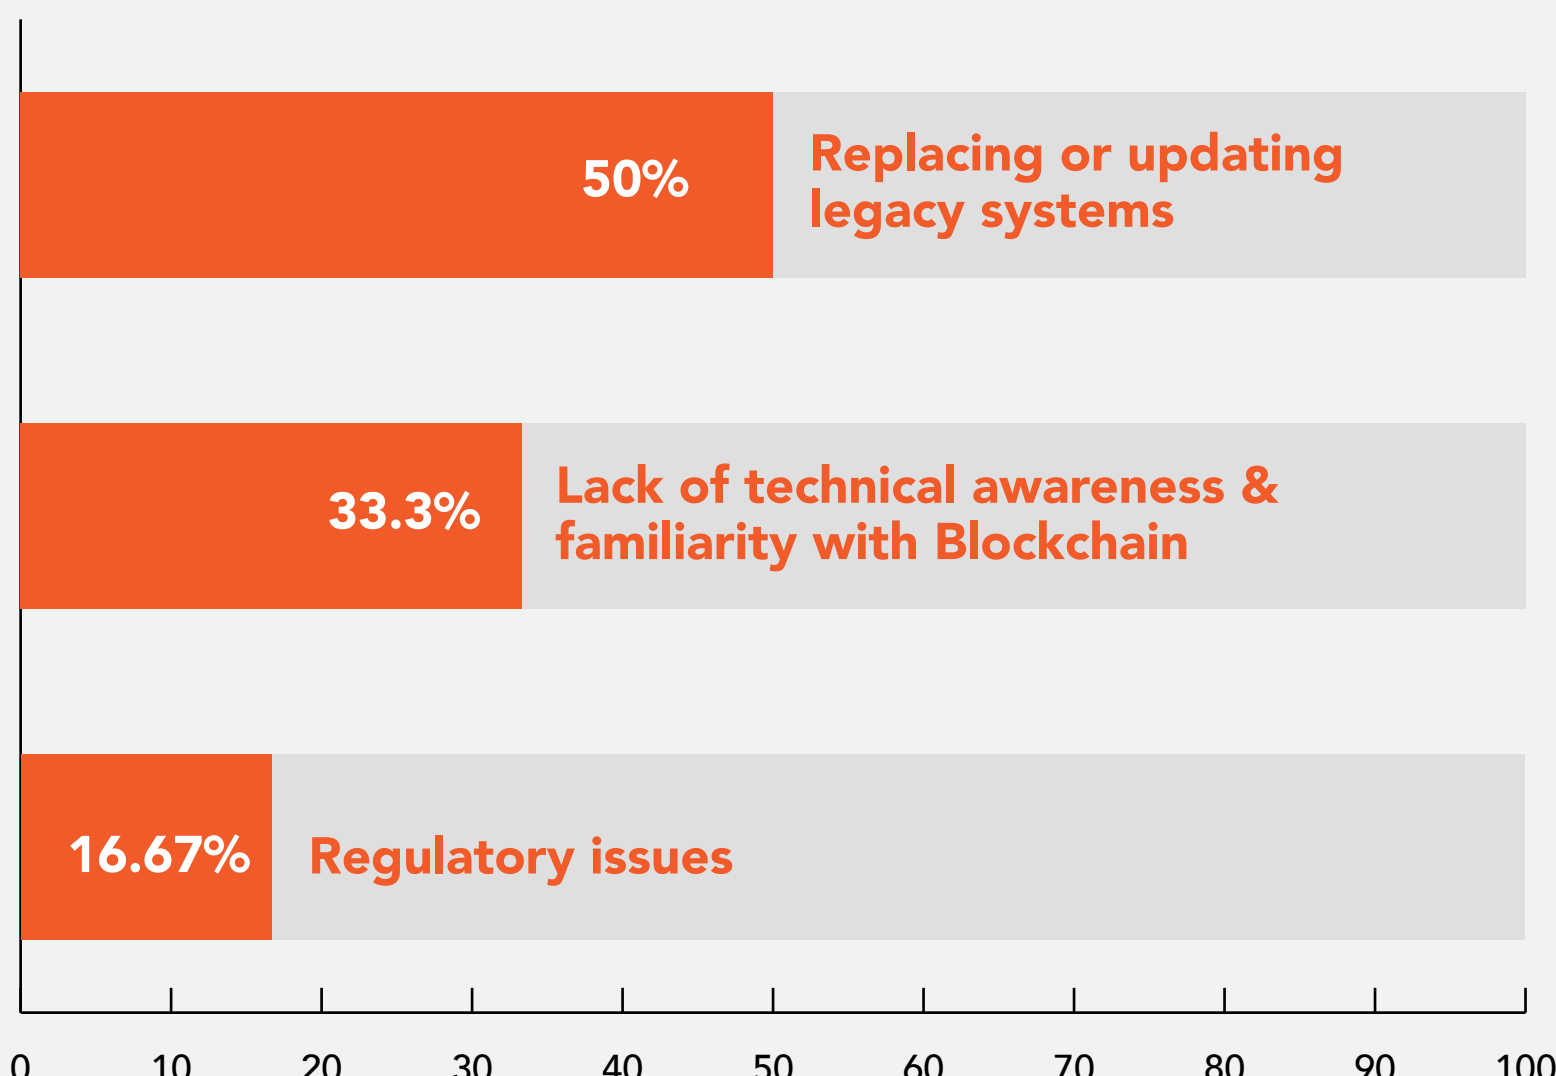

2 Most leaders trust public cloud services for their blockchain and ledger technology workloads, with AWS and Azure sharing equal adoption rate.

Which Cloud are you planning to implement your blockchain network?

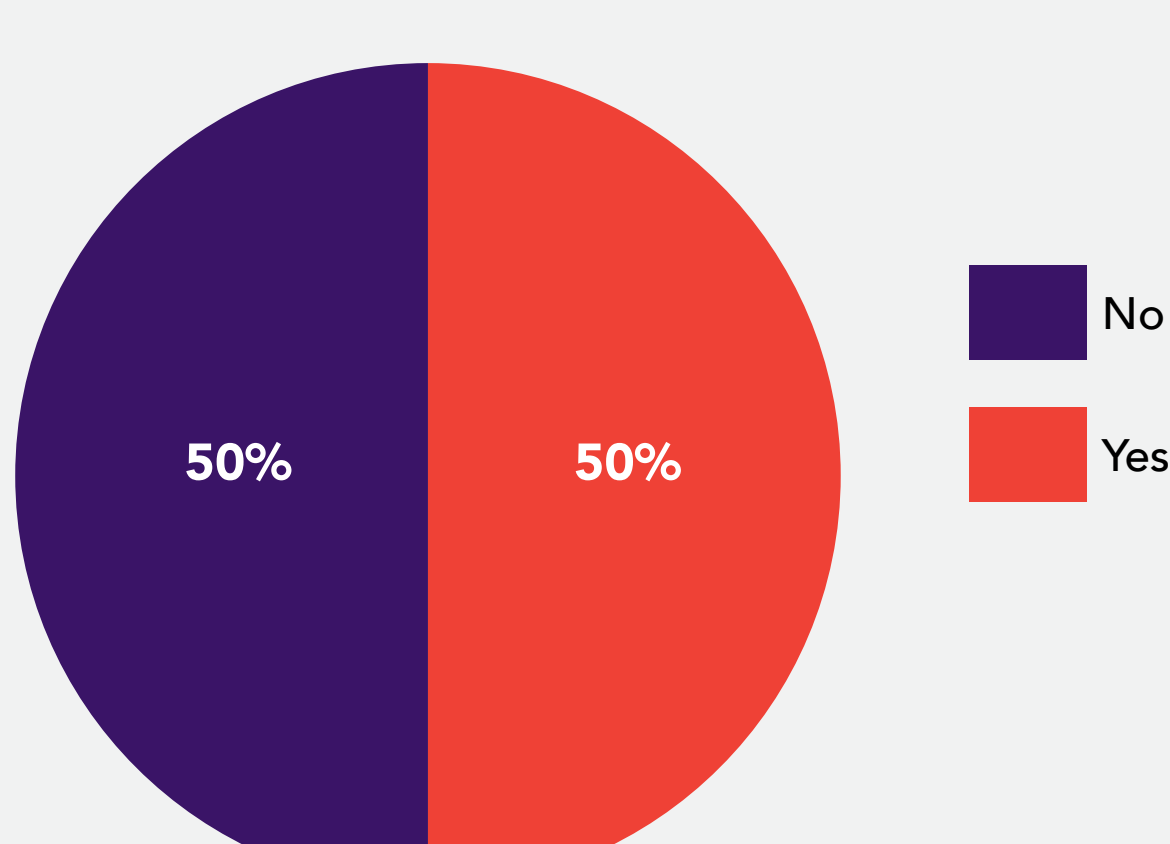

3 Modernizing the legacy systems and lack of technical knowledge are the most significant barriers to blockchain adoption.

What do you think as the barrier in blockchain adoption journey?

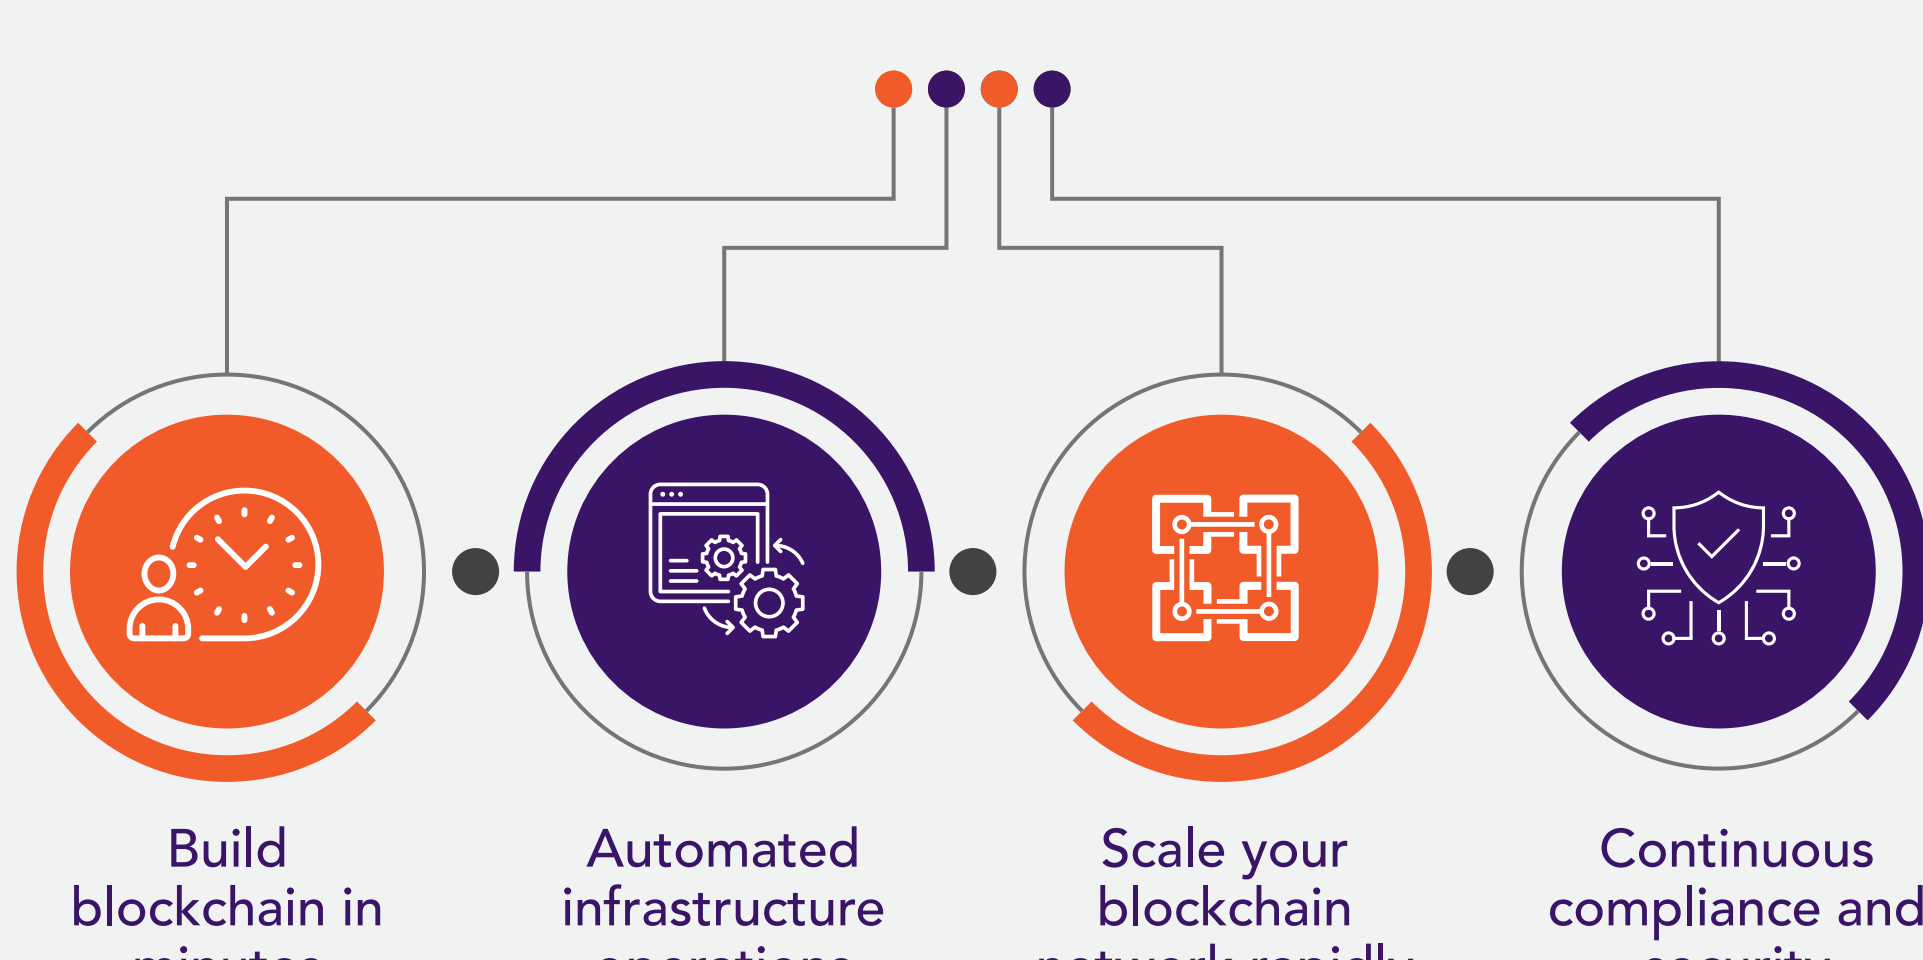

4 With the looming deadline for compliance with DSCSA, 50% of leaders cut through the hype and apply blockchain for maximum benefit. In comparison, another 50% take pivotal steps to include blockchain as part of their business strategy in the coming year.

Is blockchain implementation part of your 2022 business strategy?
